Information for Adults

What is Dyslexia?

The aim of this leaflet is to provide useful information and suggestions of what you can do if you suspect you are dyslexic.

The word 'dyslexia' comes from the Greek meaning 'difficulty with words' and is a difference in the way the brain processes language.

Dyslexia varies in different people, but can mean difficulties with:

- Reading
- Spelling
- Writing
- Organisational skills
- Short-term memory
- Numeracy Skills

Dyslexia tends to run in families and is NOT related to intelligence or to a person's background.

However, along with the difficulties, real strengths can be identified, including:

- Problem solving skills
- Enhanced creativity
- Strong visual thinking
- Intuitive
- Verbally articulate
- Spatially talented

People with dyslexia do not all have the same way of thinking, but there are common patterns.

Dyslexia is sometimes diagnosed in children soon after they start school. But quite often it is not recognised until much later in life.

There is no cure for dyslexia. With the right kind of support, dyslexics can overcome their difficulties and achieve great things.

Getting Help...

It is estimated that at least 10 - 20% of the population are affected by dyslexia; with 4% being severely affected.

Dyslexia Cornwall receives many calls from people who suspect they may be dyslexic. They have often gone through life being told they are 'stupid' or 'lazy' by friends, family, schools and employers. When given the right advice and support people with dyslexia can reach their full potential.

If you suspect you may be dyslexic:

- Develop an awareness of your strengths and difficulties. Dyslexia is not only about literacy but also affects the memory, speed of processing information, time management and organisation skills.
- Discuss your concerns with a dyslexia adviser.
- Request a dyslexia screening to identify strategies to support you in your day to day activities.
- If your problems continue to cause you concern you may benefit from a dyslexia assessment to fully assess your level of difficulty.
- Discuss your support needs with your employer. Employers, under the duty of the Equality Act (2010), need to make 'reasonable adjustments' if an employee discloses that they are dyslexic.

Useful Resources and Contacts

Assistive Technology

Assistive technologies can help with everyday literacy and organisation tasks. They include software you install on an electronic device or a specialised hardware device. Many software companies will provide free trials online, so you can try out a program before you buy it.
